Ron Galle

Director of Food Safety and Regulatory Milling – ADM Carbohydrate Solutions

Ron is the Director of Food Safety and Regulatory for ADM's Carbohydrate Solutions – Milling business. He is responsible for quality, food safety and regulatory initiatives at their 41 North American locations.

ADM is one of the world's largest agricultural processors and food ingredient providers, serving customers in more than 170 countries. ADM connects harvest to the home, making products for food, animal feed, industrial and energy uses.

Ron has over 29 years' experience in the milling industry. Prior to ADM, Ron was EHS and Food Safety Manager for the Cargill/Horizon Milling business with locations in North and South America. He also spent 7 years in plant operations roles, including Plant Manager, at various Cargill milling locations.

He received a bachelor's degree in Milling Science and Management from Kansas State University in 1990. Ron is the chairman of the International Association of Operative Millers Food Protection Committee, and also serves on the North American Millers Technical Committee and the American Baking Association Food Technical and Regulatory Affairs Committee.
